

Structure Inventory, Damage Assessment, Conductor Configuration

Airborne laser-scan survey data (when captured at the level of consistency, density, and uniformity of Aerotec data) can be used to a) determine structure type, b) assess damage (refer to the two illustrations above), and c) determine conductor configuration (refer to the illustration below).

